“ Bert worked at WFTP radio in Fort Pierce, Fl in sales. He was a hell of a guy. He made me a wood burned engraved clock which I still have. You are reembered by many of us. RIP..
Bob Burdge,sales manager WFTP radio, Fort Pierce

“ I first met Bert when he was putting together his restaurant "Theo Thudpucker's Raw Bar" in Fort Pierce FL. I am a chef and we hit it off immediately. Others have mentioned his bigger than life persona and his humor, but he was also one of the best self-promoters and marketers I have ever met. Very few new restaurants are successful but even though Bert had never ventured into that realm of business before, his success was immediate and sustained for many years, often with people waiting in line outside to get in. His food was good, but "He" was great! The atmosphere he created and his personal attention to those who dropped their hard-earned dollars in his establishment was his success. And by "dropped their hard-earned dollars" I also mean he had a CIF (cash in fist) policy. No credit cards. Anyway, I miss you and hope to one day enjoy an Oyster Stew and an ice-cold King Kong Killer Beer with you in heaven. Rest in Peace old friend.

“ Bert was a positive happy person and always ready to lighten the moment with a joke or funny quip. He was our unofficial resident Santa Clause. He loved his 1930 Model A Coupe and loved participating in the Smoky Mountain Model A Club as often as he could. He's the first person I've seen come to an event with his wheel chair tied on the back of his "A" thanks to his good friend Andy Ricker
We will all miss him and his signature laugh, but his memory will live on for a long time.

“ My Cousin Bert M Anderson and I grew up in the north woods of Michigan and were like brothers throughout our lives. Larger than life itself, humor was his signature in all he touched and the ultimate in positive thinking. Very talented in the culinary arts, making clocks, tiffany lamps, making and selling sweet breads, sewing quilts and so much more. I shall miss him but his memory lives on in every life he touched.
