“ We lived behind Mr. Young for about 25 years. I have so many memories. Some of my favorites ones are our families standing at the back fence and talking in the evenings, Mr. Young supplying the coffee and our family supplying the camp stove to perk it during a power outage due to a hurricane, and always being there for each other in cases of need and emergency. I think my FAVORITE memory of Mr. Young, aside from his strong moral compass, was his cooking. If Mr. Young was cooking in the back yard, I knew it was something "different". I had the pleasure (?) of joining him to try rattlesnake, chitlins and raccoon (during a rabies outbreak!). No one would eat it with him. He'd see me out in the yard and call "Baby, come here and try this!". I also remember he always wanted to go to the Galapagos Islands to see the giant tortoises. I don't think he made it but it introduced me to the islands as I had to see where he wanted to visit. I loved Mr. Young like a 2nd father. He was a good man with a wonderful, happy, hearty laugh. I know he's glad to be with his family again and will leave a hole in many hearts.

*Uncle Charles was a big man, of heart as well as frame. He had that true, honest laugh. Loved joking, never could grill a steak that it wasn't like car tire. I remember waiting on holidays for him and Aunt Vicki to get to my Grandmothers. People sleeping everywhere, ladies all cooking, men all telling tales of fishing, and such. So many great memories. My MoMs last surviving brother, or sibling. I am so grateful they talked just days before his passing. He was a good man, kind hearted, big hearted, opinionated, loud, and God, will we miss him.
