“ Some of my earliest memories were of picking strawberries, running up and down the hill and seeing what kind of good stuff Grandma Hattie had, she always made me feel like I wasn't out of place or not welcome, the opposite actually, if I mentioned the red in my hair, she'd just smile...and so proud of her children....she raised them all to love instead of hate and as my earliest family, hopefully rubbed off on me too ..I know she's resting and followed a whistle when she got to the gates because as we all know Grandpa John was waiting...love to all in this awesome family...money wasn't anything to the Fanchers because they measured their riches in their love of family, God and being good to each other.

“ Shellie, my heart is hurting for you. I wish I could be there to give you a big hug, just know I'm doing that via the air waves. I am so very sorry about your little Momma; I'm here if you ever need to talk. God bless all y'all in the coming days, months and years and I pray He can fill the hole left in your heart from her passing.
