“ Hey dad. I just wanted you to know that I love you very very much. I'm so glad that I got to know you and got to help with your dr appointments. Growing up I didn't have my dad, pretty much all my life. Thank you for showing me what it feels like to have a dad, someone who cared and someone who treated me like his daughter. These past two years, you grew a lot with Jesus and I know that I know you're with our Heavenly Father. I'm gonna miss blowing your hair back when I took you to the doctors in your wheels. I asked how fast you wanted to go and you'd say "blow my hair back". All the times we had our talks on the way to the doctors. Thank you for all the advice and your love, dad. Most of all, thank you for being you. You'll be missed but it's not a goodbye, it's I'll see you later. I love you very very much xoxo

“ My dad. The one I always thought was Superman. He was my true hero. Nothing could stop him we thought. And we was right. Cancer didn't beat him. He just moved to a better home. He's living with my best friend (Jesus). The one my dad truly loved and trusted. Some day I expect to get to see dad soon. Cause I love my dad and I'm so proud of him, he gave his life to Jesus and bragged about how good it was, knowing he was going through pain and suffering . He always said (son Jesus is worth everything). I believe every word. Because I'm living it. Jesus is worth everything. I'll see you soon dad. Give Jesus a hug for me please. But for everyone else. Start that relationship again with god our creator. He did give us his son on the cross. Don't we owe it to him to at least talk to him every now and then. Our loved ones are only a prayer away. And Jesus is the only path back to them. Do you want to see them. It's up to you. God bless
