“ On August 20 this year, would have been mine and John's 20 year wedding anniversary. It's been 4 1/2 years since he crossed over now, and I still find myself wanting to go to him for advice and to help me find my strength when I forget. John was ahead of his time, and far too good for this world, but not a day goes by that I don't miss him. Seeing our children grow into such amazing people, I see him in them more and more. I know he would be so proud of each of them. I want to thank the community for all of the love and kindness shown to my family and I, and for keeping John's spirit alive for our children.

“ John was my big brother. My only brother. When we were kids he would protect me to the point it was hard for me to find a boyfriend, and when i did if they made me cry, he made them cry. He taught me how to fight and protect myself. He was the true definition of a big brother. Tomorrow makes four years since he passed and it still hurts just as bad and there's no way to put it into words. I loved him so so much and miss him everyday. We weren't speaking when he died because of disagreements and pride , but i know he loved me and i know he knew that i loved him. He lives in my heart now, and he knew the Lord and I have complete faith that he is with the Lord now.
