Beth I am so very sorry for your loss. I know you are hurting more than you feel you can handle. If I can in anyway help you carry your burden please let me know. God will always hold on to you. Blessed be the wonderful love you and your mom held for each other and still do. She will be with you always. They never leave us, they are just around the corner. Love, hugs, and prayers for you and your family.

“ What to say ! I met Susan and Jeff 19 years ago at Walmart. Susan and I cut up all the time ! I know we got all kinds of stares from the crazy things I would say and her laughing at them. I would always say - Looke what the cat drug in ! Susan would just - Meow ! She was the most amazing person to work with. Thoughts and prayers for you and Jeff !

Oh how this has broken my heart. There were days at Walmart that Susan was all that helped me make it through. Not only was she a coworker but my very good friend. We always called each other "sister". (Tears) She would say come on sister, let's go run these registers !!! We would stay side by side cracking jokes to make it through. We stayed till we both could get off the registers bc thats w"what sisters" did !!! How I loved her !!!! We would get to ourselves in an aisle and vent !!! Boy could we let it roll !!! I'm gonna miss her terribly. Jeff I am so sorry for y'all's loss. I know she was y'all's world. Love to u 🥺💕💕

“ *Jeff and Beth, I'm so sorry for your loss. Ever time I spoke with Susan at Walmart , she would tell me how she loved the lord and how we all needed to be ready to meet our savior all the time and that she was. It brings a verse to mind : of being absent from the body, and present with the lord. I know that's where she's at. I'm praying God will comfort your hearts and give you strength at this time.
