“ There’s so many things I could say about Tim, he was an awesome man! He loved my mom to pieces, and he made her so happy. The happiest I have ever seen her. He took me and my brothers in like his own and same with my kids. He took up with us so fast and never once treated us any different. My girls love him to pieces. It was all about Papaw with them. He’s taught me so much, he’s given me so much advice, he always told me how proud I made him and never once said I needed to do better. He was amazing! My heart is absolutely broken but I know that one day we’ll meet again and I can’t wait! No matter what was going on or even if he was upset He ALWAYS had a smile on his face. He was the happiest person I have ever met. He used to wear one sock off and one on, I finally one day asked him why and he said because it keeps him cool and that I would try it. I haven’t yet, but I will. I laughed so shared when he told me that, but that’s things I can look back on and smile of the memories. I’m so glad to have met someone like him. I love you Tim, until we meet again. I’ll take care of momma for you, I know you would want me to. I just want to make you proud. Xoxo.

“ Tim was destined to be a family man. He was always a great story teller. He started that when we were just kids. He may not have known that we were paying that much attention to that quality. But that has always been one of my favorite things about my big brother. Oh, how he'd use such dramatics and sound effects when he'd read a story. But, I feel that his greatest accomplishments was his family. Tim has such beautiful children and grandchildren that he was always so good with and proud of. I just wish I would have had that last chance to tell him how much I loved him and how proud of him I really was. I miss you and love you Tim. Save a place for me!!!
