“ So sorry to learn about Bill's passing. He was a roommate of mine for about 10 years in the 1980s. Three of us rented an apartment near Coolidge Corner, just outside Boston. We had some fun times, watching sports and listening to music on Bill's great speakers. But most important were the conversations Bill and I had just talking about life. We shared a lot and I learned a lot from Bill. I will miss him.

“ As we travel along the path of our existence, we occasionally come across individuals who have a truly kind and sensitive nature. If we are lucky, we may get to spend some time with that person and share the light that shines down on them. If we are really lucky we get to know that person throughout our lives. We realize that our lives have been made richer and more complete by that association. On several occasions when I was lost Billy pointed me towards the light. I think I speak for us all when I say that our sorrow at his passing is immense, that our lives have become dimmer without him. But rejoice in the knowledge that heaven has just gotten a little brighter. We love you man, and look forward to the day we meet up again in the palm of the Lord. To all of us left behind, his brothers Bobby and Dennis, his many cousins and friends, Michele and I offer condolences and hope for salvation.

“ To Bobby & Dennis,
So sorry on the loss of your brother Billy and our second cousin. He will be missed by all that knew and loved him. I always liked Billy, we shared some laughs when I last saw him, of course they were at Phyliss's expense.

“ So sorry to hear of the loss of Billy. He was a wonderful person. I remember him from the early days in Boston. He was always kind. The last time I saw him was four years ago when Phyllis Talabach passed away. He was so helpful with everything. We talked a lot then and since then. He always talked about his dog and about how in love he was. I hope all of you like myself will feel blessed to have him in your lives. I know I was blessed to know him. He was my mother Vivian's first cousin and she loved him a lot. May he always rest in eternal peace.
